It's About Time

It's about time. . .

. . . for the seniors to reflect on the collection of memories gathered here at St. Bernard's. We seniors have come a long way since we crossed the threshold into our freshman world of St. Bernard's. The fear and confusion have been transformed into acceptance and understanding. We have learned what a "Saint" is and how to become one. Being a "Saint" isn't just coming to school but also making and fostering true friendships based on respect, trust, and love – friendships that will last a lifetime. As we again cross the threshold of St. Bernard's, this time on our way to a different world, we will take pride in our accomplishments – in our school. Even though we will go in various directions, our memories and our friendships cannot be taken away. If luck goes our way, we will all be together again – somewhere, sometime. So it's only goodbye for now, until we meet again. . .

For all the time you've spent,
we thank you.
For all the advice that has been lent,
we thank you!
For all the impressions you left,
we thank you!
For the sincerity, caring, and friendship
you show
Will, after we leave,
allow us to grow.
So "thank you," we say,
for the very last time.
With love and best wishes
from the class of '99.

Of Moments and Mentors

Time to Share Our Gratitude

The faculty at St. Bernard's, for the past four years, has provided the Class of '99 with the love, support, and commitment that we needed to become as successful as we are. We cannot thank them enough. If we were allowed four more years to stay at St. Bernard's to just give back and thank every teacher who has made a difference in our lives, we would still need more time.

Though their title is "teacher," we see them as much more. Whether as friends, mentors, tutors, or coaches, members of this faculty never tired of giving us their undivided attention. They not only taught us information, they showed us life. We can now sincerely say that we know the difference between simply existing and truly living. There will be many students who never get the opportunity to experience the outstanding faculty at St. Bernard's. We can only hope they will receive half the knowledge we have received, for no one will ever know a better education of body, mind, and spirit.

We are extremely grateful for all the time, effort, and faith that the faculty here at St. Bernard's has put into developing us into the young men and women we have become. We love them all and wish them well. May the class of '99 leave them with fond memories, great stories, and the feelings of great success. For no matter how far away we go, we have, with all their guidance, become, and will forever remain, the "Saints" of St. Bernard's High.

—Kate Maruszewski

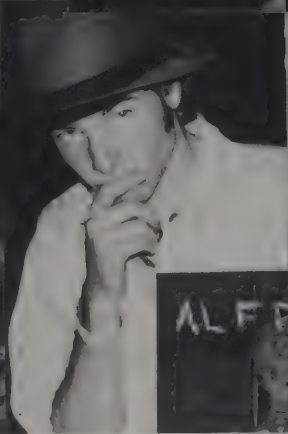

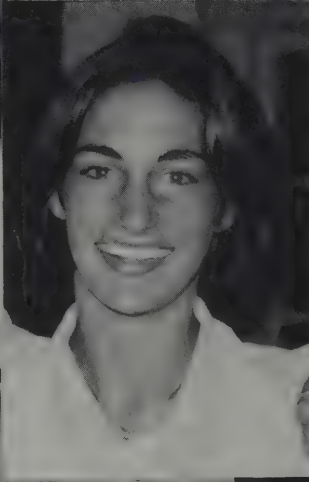

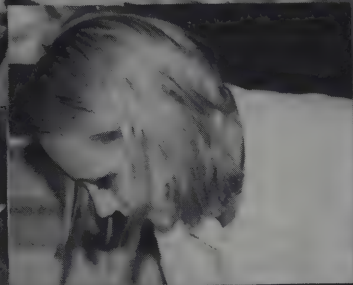

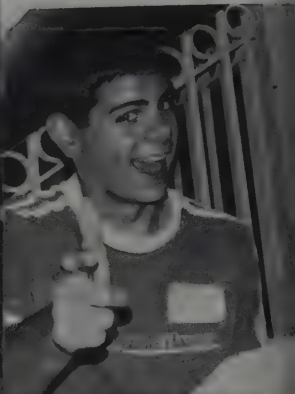

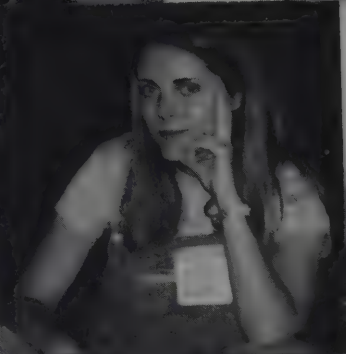

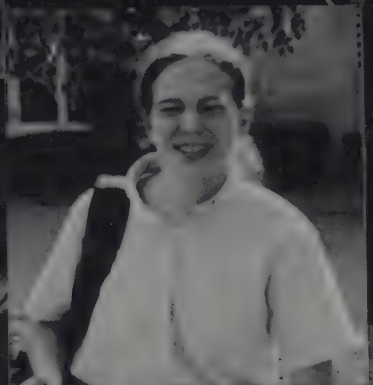

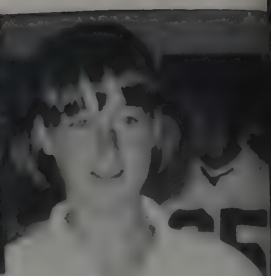

Look to this day!
For it is life,
the very life of life.
In its brief course lie all the varieties and realities of your existence:
The bliss of growth;
The glory of action;
The splendor of beauty;
for yesterday
is already a dream,
and tomorrow
is only a vision;
But today, well lived,
makes every yesterday
a dream of happiness,
and every tomorrow
a vision of hope.

The Ocean

The ocean was bottomlessly deep.
Standing at the edge of the ocean
I looked toward the bottom of the ocean.

Dangerously near tumbling off,
what I thought of was the things of my future.
Time was imagined like the legs of an infant who has not yet walked.

No matter what happens anywhere
there is nothing else to do but stand on the deep cliff, clench my teeth, and close my eyes.

The unexperienced future
like fishermen's fires flickering past the horizon has darkness around itself.

I seem to have thrown my body down into that ocean.

-Shinkichi Takahashi

They like to think they need no introduction, but we'll leave that up to you.

"All I did was open the door," says the disheveled Annie Boyd.

All the Time in the World

Friends 'til the end. . . Heather Dodge, Samantha Ellis, Susan Haseltine, Elisabeth Ricci, and Joanna Raher enjoy time together in the school hallways.

So beautiful tonight . . . Amy DeFillippo and Sarah Grammel look so gorgeous for the Christmas Dance.

Ring Ceremony evening Josh Tackett and Melissa Guilmette share class pride.

Sands of Time

Grains of sand Running through your fingers.
There's no way to get them back.
They remain, but
a memory.
Use the sands wisely-
Build a hill, a mansion,
a castle.
Don't simply let the grains
of sand
Blow away in the wind,
unused.
Grasp the sands in hand.
Realize the power within.
Let nothing be wasted.
All is gone too soon,
too quickly.
The sands of time are precious,
And once they are gone,
They are gone
But remain in memory.

-Mary A. Sawyer

Under pressure Tim Pelletier is hard at work, unlike most days.

Artist, Catlin Connor, poses in front of her own individual masterpiece

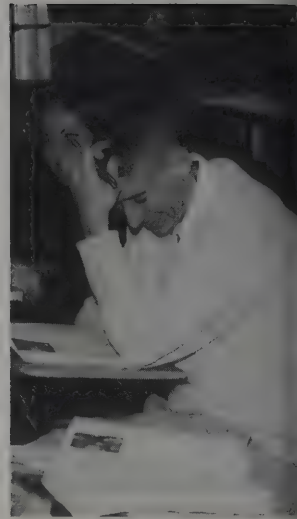

Here's a shoulder . . . John Bozicas and Kate Quinn know they can lean on each other when they need a friend.

Class of 2002

So much to teach.
So little time...

The end has come, as come it must
To all things, in these sweet June days
The teacher and the scholar trust
Their parting feet to separate ways.

So daily grew before her eyes,
The living shapes whereon she wrought,
Strong, tender, innocently wise,
The child's heart with the woman's thought

Her little realm the teacher leaves,
She breaks her wand of power apart,
While, for your love and trust, she gives
The warm thanks of a grateful heart.

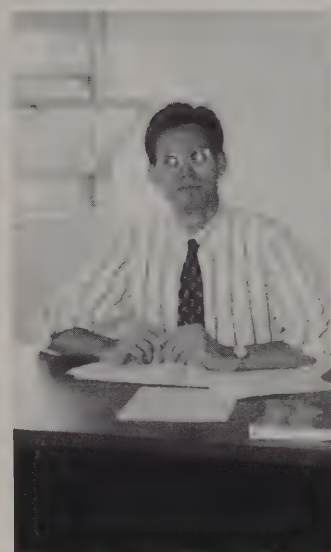

Across the distance of the years
She sends her God-speed back to you:
She has no thought of doubt or fears;
Be but yourselves, be pure, be true.

And prompt in duty; heed the deep,
Low voice of conscience; through the ill
And discord round about you, keep Your faith in human nature still.

And when the world shall link your names
With gracious lives and manners fine,
Teacher shall assert her claims,
And proudly whisper, "These were mine!"

-John Greenleaf Whittier

In Search of a Challenge?

Art is a challenge to a student's emotions. It's not something to be learned; it's something each person creates, from within the depths of themselves. Creativity requires that a person take some time to ponder and then begin to make some choices. Faced with a blank leaf of drawing paper, an amorphous lump of clay or a spectrum of colors, the budding artist learns to express self in a new way that requires no words. The end product may come as a happy surprise, yet it remains the process that is the actual treasure.

Its loveliness increases;
it will never

Memories

Somehow time has fled,
and so we must go on.
Where will we all be?
How far have we gone?
We all have different goals,
desires and needs,
But for some apparent reason,
our mind still feeds
On the memories we had . . .
our loved ones, our friends.
They say all good things
must come to an end.

So when the time comes:
when we say our good-byes,
Keep these sweet memories
in your heart,
And wipe the tears
from your eyes.

"Why do we have a ring ceremony?"

"I believe it goes beyond tradition. . .

The circular nature of a ring, the no beginning and no end should not be new to us as Christians. The ring, the circle, is a sign of God who has no beginning, no end. Something has happened, is happening, and continues to happen, our salvation through Jesus Christ, the reason this school is in existence. . .

*"Tonight you receive a ring. . .
Tonight you are being asked to make a commitment. . .*

*"By accepting this ring, you become a member of the Ber-nardian tradition . . . which embraces over 8000 graduates that have the right to wear a St.
Bernard's class ring. With this ring comes a commitment to yourself, your class, your school to do those things that will bring pride and honor.*

congratulate the Class of 2000. I challenge you to live up our commitment.

This is why we have a ring ceremony."

-excerpted from Mr. Bieren's address

Time of Commitment

Carpe diem!

Seize the day!

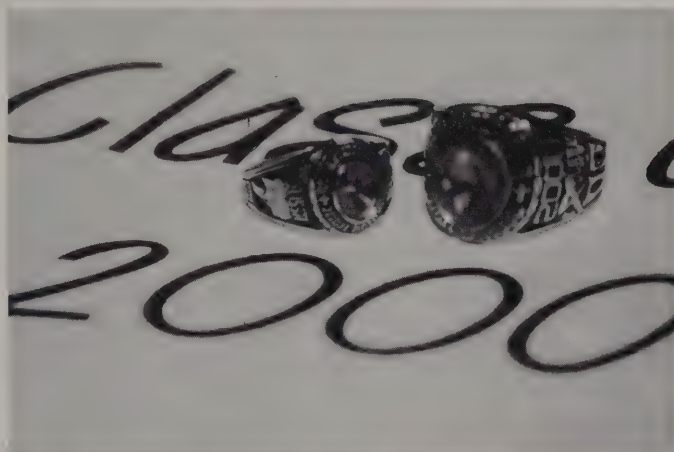

Have you ever seriously considered time? Have you ever confronted your relationship with time? Tonight is a celebration of time. This is your Junior Ring Ceremony. Seventy-four classes have come through those very same doors, walked through those very same halls and searched for parking, just like you. Their time here was limited. So is yours.

No other group of people could be the Class of 2000. Nobody else was born at the precise time you were. No one else made the choice to enroll at St. Bernard's. No one else could have roughed it out to make it this far. You have proven your dedication. However, be aware that you are the only group of people who meet the requirements. You are the only people who could be in this room, at this moment, receiving your rings. You will not come this way again.

So, how have you spent your time? Have you caressed it? Have you made the most of it? How have you spent your time at St. Bernard's? Have you loved your friends? Have you reached for the most you could attain? What have you done with your time? Have you spent all your time worrying about the future? Have you clung to the past?

I urge you to embrace the moment, enjoy this moment because, my friends, time runs out.

-excerpted from Mr. Driscoll's moving address to the class

-Michael W. Smith

Packing up the dreams God has planted

In the fertile soil of you Can't believe the hopes and dreams He's granted Means a chapter in your life is through.

But we'll keep you close as always.
It won't even seem you've gone
'Cause our heart in big and small
ways
Will keep the love that keeps us
strong.

And friends are friends forever
If the Lord is the Lord of them,
And a friend will not say "never"
'Cause the welcome will not end.
Though it's hard to let you go
In the Father's hands we know
That a lifetime's not too long
To live as friends.

With the faith and love God's given,
Springing from the hope we know,
We will pray the joy you'll live in
Is the strength that now you show.

But we'll keep you close as
always.
It won't even seem you've gone
'Cause our heart in big and small
ways
Will keep the love that keeps us
strong.

TAKE PART

The gift of time is a precious one.
We strive to relax, desire to have fun.
So we meet after school, looking to find
An activity to stimulate every mind.
The options are many, the differences vast;
Minds of the present use ideas of the past.
To create an activity designed to be fun.
There's a little something for everyone!

—Denise Boudreau

Practice makes perfect . . . Many days of rehearsal for three days of sheer perfection. The cast of the comedy A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum makes sure that everything is ever so lovely.

Artists Making History

Few people really know much about the Art Club. To many, the weekly announcement of the club meeting is just another reminder. But unlike other clubs, the Art Club is the only extracurricular activity that allows a student to completely reveal the inner self. Most students would rather not spend any more time in front of a canvas than necessary. However, those of us who are willing to take the time to practice more gesture drawings, strive at making a clay bowl, or set free unlimited colors allow ourselves to be creatively expressive and better at what we do. Also, the Art Club is not only about art; it is about making new friends and learning not to be judgmental. The club is an escape from requirements and deadlines. It is a place to go when in need of a friend or an opportunity to get into something that is venturesome. This year we have all learned something valuable from one another: the ability to take on challenges.

Every Friday, lovers of the art of cinema join together to see and discuss films. Watching such controversial movies as The Fisher King, The Mission, and Citizen Kane, and classics like Close Encounters of the Third Kind, Psycho, and On the Waterfront, we feel mystified by the power of the silver screen. In each frame, we witness art and entertainment at a whole new level. There is nothing like the magic of movies.

S.A.D.D.'s goal is to make students aware of the dangers of underage drinking and drunk driving. The club meets every other week to discuss ways we can discourage our fellow classmates from making unwise decisions. S.A.D.D. sponsors poetry contests that encourage students to express their feelings about drunk driving. We also created a "Circle of Life" which was made from construction paper links containing the name of every student and staff member to show the importance of each person's place in our St. Bernard's community. S.A.D.D. holds several fund raisers throughout the year to help us accomplish our goals. Most of all, we always have a lot of fun!

S.A.D.D: Erin Courtney, Secretary; Lyndsey Angus, Treasurer; Kate Maruszewski, Vice President; Mary Schwab, President.

Take Time to Enjoy Life!

Seizing the Day

Under the guidance of Fr. Don Ouellette, the Campus Ministry group is the moral backbone of St. Bernard's. Among the members' many endeavors during the year are serving as Eucharistic ministers and helping out with the Masses held in the auditorium. This is also the group to look to for moral or spiritual guidance. The cheerful smiles and open minds are a great asset to the St. Bernard's community.

Using the power of the written word, the staff of the Blue and Gold continues to inform the school and give a forum for opinion to be expressed. It is a vehicle for the students to receive the information related to them student. Diligently working, the staff tries to assure that accurate and interesting information can reach St. Bernard's High School in a positive way.

Tempus Fugit

The idea that the only good language is a dead language is something the Classics Club strives to prove through attitude and example. Over the course of a school year, the Classics Club undertakes many projects, culminating with a Latin competition against other schools in the area. And, of course, they show the rest of the community that Latin can be fun.

Time to Lose the Training Wheels

Time to Save the World

The Environmental Club seeks to inform its members and the general school body of the pressing ecological issues of the day. As the coordinator of St. Bernard's paper recycling program, the group offers students and faculty the option of being helpful hands in the fight against deforestation. Also, a long-range program to install solar panels seeks to promote the effectiveness of clean energy solutions.

character-

this is the motto of the National Honor Society. As a society, its members serve as role models for the rest of the Saint Bernard's community. Together, they also take on such projects as conducting a Valentine's Day raffle, recognizing outstanding students, and buying Christmas gifts for the less fortunate. In the fall, the seniors take a trip to Washington, D.C., to see the sights and take in some culture. When graduation time rolls around, the seniors receive hoods to wear- a sign that they have lived lives of scholarship, leadership, service, and character.

A Time of Academic Recognition

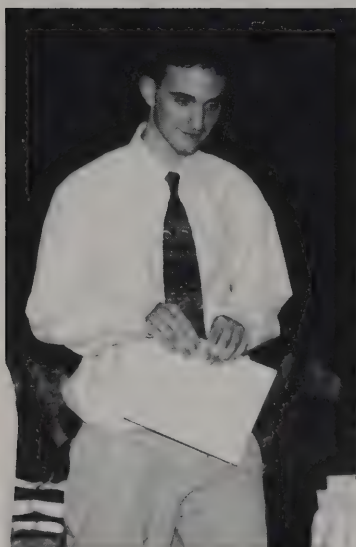

In a tradition that is destined to be enshrined as a paramount event for Bernardian academics, the annual book awards bring with them a sense of reward and recognition for those scholars who are at the top of their classes. Presented to the students who are within the top 10% of each grade, the books, which range from presidential biographies to the latest dictionaries, are bestowed by school faculty members and distinguished guests, who confer them on behalf of their respective alma maters. Yet, perhaps even more importantly, this ceremony in the midst of the Academic Awards Night brings with it an implicit recognition of the scholars' parents, who have labored so tirelessly to bequeath to their children a promise of a better tomorrow.

A Day In "Our Town"

"This play is called Our Town" Those were the words that began yet another great Saint Bernard's theater production. They were also the same words that sent chills up the spines of the budding actors and actresses eagerly awaiting their chances to shine. As the curtain went up on the town of Grover's Corner and the simplistic setting, all knew that after the many rehearsals and frequent repetition of some scenes, the show would come together splendidly. And so it did.

The atmosphere backstage was somewhat tense, yet rather enthusiastic. The cast hugged one another when a scene went well and breathed sighs of relief when a mistake or two went unnoticed. Then, when the final lights went down, a wave of joy swept through the auditorium, and all were thankful for a job well done.

-Denise Boudreau

"George, do you know what I think? Do you?" Woolfrey explains to B. J. Simms the mysteries of the universe.

"Is there something on your mind, Dear?" John Bozicas inquires of Crystal Nowlan as to why she is staring at the moon.

"Now you play in the fields, young man." Doug Howgate explains to B. J. Simms of the dangers of the mean streets.

"you leave loudness to the Methodists." Adam Rodriguez, the town spewer, gibberish at the congregation.

"Why Julia Gibbs!" Samatha Ellis shocks Meredith Plourde with the information of her $350 legacy.

"Maybe we could work out a kinda telegraph m..." B. J. Simms asks a favor of Crystal Nowlan.

Curtain Call

Continuous rehearsals and long nights of practice paid off in a big way. Everything fit together well and the chemistry between actors was flawless. Rehearsals had shown definite potential, but it was not until the curtain rose and the "tradition" began with Willy Gelinas' fine portrayal of Tevye, that anyone of us in the cast realized the quality production we had.

Before the curtain call, all were excited and nervous. Stage fright was extremely thick. Everyone's mind-set was that it had to all come together and work. Voice warm-ups and recitations of lines and lyrics could be heard everywhere. Then the curtain opened on one of the finest productions ever to be seen on that stage, no doubt.

The second night was filled with more exhilaration than anything else. Gifts and flowers were handed out, and hugs and kisses were shared. When the last song ended, the curtains closed on the desolate town of Anatevcha, and was met with relief and tears. The set destruction was boycotted and there were fights over who would get what props. A pile of costumes lay on the stage floor and wood was strewn about. To ask any cast members their feelings on Fiddler On the Roof, their response would be one of great fondness. "It will be a great memory in my life and one of which I am glad I was a part."

-Brian Simms

Fiddler on the Roof was one of the best performances ever on stage at StB!

"A fiddler on the roof. Sounds crazy, no?" Lauren Boucher tries to keep her balance.

The forgotten sisters. Shprintze and Bielke, Angela Charubini and Cait O'Shea, are paying attention to their lessons.

"Matchmaker, matchmaker. . ." Chava, Tanya Ziminsky, wonders what her match will be.

"Chaim!" Steph Heroux ('98) and Marcia Caron show everyone how the dance is done.

"I were a rich man." Willy Gelinas puts his heart and soul into his role as Tevye.

"You wanna marry my what?" Lazar Wolfe, John Bozicas, tries to explain to Tevya, Willy Gelinas, that he does not want to marry Tevye's milk cow.
"It's about time!" Pattie Caron ('98), B. J. Simms and Marcia Caron relax after the long production with director Dave Ludt.

Treasure of Time

We are all aware that there is so much to do and so little time to do it. It's been the grueling job of a group of students to make the most of time and to carefully preserve in photographs, art, and writing, the time spent at St. Bernard's High School. Time spent playing sports, performing in plays and musicals, joining in clubs, and most importantly developing our minds, our hearts and our souls, is captured on the pages of The Bernardian. Our yearbook chronicles everything we put in our hearts to become "Saints."

With everyone both in the outside world and in school caught up in crowds of people, dashing up stairs, running through halls, trying to get to a destination on time, when has anyone had time to capture the memories, and where does that happen?

Well, there's a room not everyone knows about, hidden between two classrooms and silent most of the time. Room 40 comes alive one night a week between 6 and 8 p.m., with the voices of teachers, and students. The staff members come together with creative ideas and enthusiastic effort, racking their brains and pulling out their hair in an effort to beat the clock and make the deadlines. Hours of diligent work, bright eyes, sometimes from tears, other times from laughter, and an amazing perservance and dedication are what make the students of the yearbook staff truly "Saints."

It's not all work Kristen Pekkinen, Doug Jordan, Jackie DiRusso and Torres take a breather at a yearbook meeting.

Hmmmm... Matt Morand looks through last year's yearbook to see what he can improve on.

I get by with a little help from a friend, BJ Simms gives Sadie Roy a reassuring hug that everything is going fine.

"This one? This layout catches my eyes, what do you think?" Mrs. Boudreau helps Diana Lemire choose a layout for her section.

"LP US!!!" Mrs. Boudreau and Miss Laughlin show that the strain is ing them!

Don't Give Up

If you've tried and have not won,
Never stop for crying;
All's that's great and good is done
Just by patient trying.

Though young birds, in flying, fall,
Still their wings grow stronger;
And the next time they can keep
Up a little longer.

Though the sturdy oak has known
Many a blast that bowed her,
She has risen again and grown
Loftier and prouder.

If by easy work you beat,
Who the more will prize you?
Gaining victory from defeat,
That's the test that tries you!

A Heartbreaking Season

This year the Saints' football team finished its season at a disappointing 5 and 6 record, despite going 4 and 1 in the Division IV Catholic Large Conference and averaging 23 points per game. The team was lead on by Captain Tom Bernard, who set a school record of six games with more than 15 tackles. In the face of mediocrity, the Saints still managed to crush the undefeated Lunenburg Knights on Thanksgiving Eve with a score of 34 to 12. Although coming up short in the end, the Saints played their hearts out all season.

The World ahead of you is filled with choices - choices you will make for yourself and those around you. And each choice will have an impact - sometimes major, sometimes minor - on how your life will go. God gives you the wisdom and guidance you'll need and points the way to your highest good. So trust and ask God to help make your choices.

"Let us choose what is right;
let us determine among ourselves what is good."

The question is, how do we respond to failure? We could take the common approach and ask, "Why me?" or take the Arthur Ashe approach and say "If I don't ask 'why me' after my victories, I cannot ask 'why me' after my setbacks and disasters."

Msgr. Richard Hannigan

A Loyal Bernardian and Constant Friend of this School

Monsignor Hannigan was born July 22, 1930, in Burlington, Vermont, but grew up in West Fitchburg, as a parishioner of Sacred Heart of Jesus Church. A graduate of St. Bernard's High School, Becker Junior College, and the School of St. Philip Neri in Boston, he earned his degree in theology and philosophy from St. John's Seminary in Brighton, Massachusetts in 1959.

Monsignor Hannigan was ordained a priest of the Diocese of Worcester on Jan. 6, 1959. He served at St. Peter's Church and at St. Charles Borromeo before becoming assistant pastor of St. Stephen's Church.

During his college time, he had served in the Air National Guard, and this led him to be commissioned a lieutenant in the Chaplain Corps of the Navy Reserves in 1967. During the Vietnam War, he served as a Marine chaplain south of Da Nang, Vietnam, where he was wounded by an enemy mine. Recuperation was a year-long process, after which he returned to the work he loved as chaplain serving on bases in Washington, Cuba, Massachusetts, South Carolina, Guam, and Maine. He retired from the navy as a commander after thirteen years of service. During his career, Father Hannigan had been awarded the Purple Heart, the Navy Commendation Medal with two Gold Stars, the Combat Action Ribbon, the Presidential Unit Citation, the Meritorious Unit Citation, the National Service Medal, the Vietnam Service Medal, the Republic of Vietnam Cross of Gallantry, the Republic of Vietnam Civil Actions Unit Citation, and the Republic of Vietnam Campaign Medal.

In 1981, Father joined the staff at St. Bernard's and served as headmaster in 1982. Even as pastor of St. Bernard's Church, a position he held from 1983 until 1996, he continued to support the high school and its students in any way that he could. Many will especially remember seeing Monsignor on the sidelines of home football games.

Excerpts from Jay Bernard's Senior Project Dedication, read at Monsignor's funeral.

Monsignor Hannigan was the pastor at St. Bernard's parish until he was forced to retire because of complications from an old injury. [I knew him to be] a dedicated man who knew how to have fun and be serious at the same time.

When I first entered St. Bernard's parish, I was overwhelmed by the size of it. Standing in the entrance looking around in amazement, I was approached by a kind-looking, grandfatherly man, and warmly invited to come in and make myself at home. He wasted no time introducing himself as Father Hannigan, pastor of St. Bernard's. . . He was extremely patient and very forgiving about all the mistakes I remember making as an altar boy. His patience is something I will always remember and, hopefully, imitate.

During my time under Father, he was offered the privilege of becoming a monsignor, which he readily accepted. I felt so happy and proud to serve [as an altar server] during his induction Mass.

A million "thank you's" are not enough, but the best I can do is offer my sincerest thanks for helping me grow spiritually and mentally over the years I knew him. Thanks, Monsignor Hannigan.

Wear Sunscreen!

Wear sunscreen.

If I could offer you only one tip for the future, sunscreen would be it.

The long-term benefits of sunscreen have been proved by scientists, whereas the rest of my advice has no basis more reliable than my own meandering experience.

I will dispense this advice now.

Enjoy the power and beauty of your youth.

Oh, never mind.

You will not understand the power and beauty of your youth until they've faded.

But trust me, in 20 years, you'll look back at photos of yourself and recall in a way you can't grasp now how much possibility lay before you and how fabulous you really looked. You are not as fat as you imagine.

Don't worry about the future.

Or worry, but know that worrying is as effective as trying to solve an algebra equation by chewing bubblegum.

The real troubles in your life are apt to be things that never crossed your worried mind, the kind that blindside you at 4 p.m. on some idle Tuesday.

Do one thing every day that scares you.

Sing.

Don't be reckless with other people's hearts.

Don't put up with people who are reckless with yours.

Floss.

Don't waste your time on jealousy.

Sometimes you're ahead, sometimes you're behind.

The race is long and, in the end, it's only with yourself.

Remember compliments you receive.

Forget the insults.

If you succeed in doing this, tell me how.

Keep your old love letters.

Throw away your old bank statements.

Stretch.

Don't feel guilty if you don't know what you want to do with your life.

The most interesting people I know didn't know at 22 what they wanted to do with their lives.

Some of the most interesting 40-year-olds I know still don't.

Get plenty of calcium.

Be kind to your knees.

You'll miss them when they're gone.

Maybe you'll marry, maybe you won't.

Maybe you'll have children, maybe you won't.

Maybe you'll divorce at 40, maybe you'll dance the funky chicken on your 75th wedding anniversary.

Whatever you do, don't congratulate yourself too much, or berate yourself either.

Your choices are half chance.

So are everybody else's.

Enjoy your body.

Use it every way you can.

Don't be afraid of it or of what other people think of it.

It's the greatest instrument you'll ever own.

Dance, even if you have nowhere to do it but your livingroom.

Read the directions, even if you don't follow them.

Do not read beauty magazines.

They will only make you feel ugly.

Get to know your parents.

You never know when they'll be gone for good.

Be nice to your siblings.

They're your best link to your past and the people most likely to stick with you in the future.

Understand that friends come and go, but with a precious few you should hold on.

Work hard to bridge the gaps in geography and lifestyle, because the older you get, the more you need the people who knew you when you were young.

Live in New York City once, but leave before it makes you hard.

Live in Northern California once, but leave before it makes you soft.

Travel.

Accept certain inalienable truths: Prices will rise.

Politicians will philander.

You, too, will get old.

And when you do, you'll fantasize that when you were young, prices were reasonable, politicians were noble, and children respected their elders.

Respect your elders.

Don't expect anyone else to support you.

Maybe you have a trust fund.

Maybe you'll have a wealthy spouse.

But you never know when either one might run out.

Don't mess too much with your hair or by the time you're 40 it will look 85.

Be careful whose advice you buy, but be patient with those who supply it.

Advice is a form of nostalgia.

Dispensing it is a way of fishing the past from the disposal, wiping it off, painting over the ugly parts and recycling it for more than it's worth.

But trust me on the sunscreen.
